

GOOD JOKE ON GAY MRS. CARY

Sued for the Trifling
Sum of $5500.

Her Millionaire Husband
Laughed and Will Pay the Bill.

Judgment Taken by Default in Favor of Her Unfeeling and Anxious Dressmaker.

NEW YORK, June 12.—Among the articles that comprise the winter wardrobe of Mrs. Hamilton Wilkes Cary may be enumerated one broad-tail coat valued at $725; one silk lace coat, trimmed with chinchilla and valued at $600; one Russian sable stole, valued at $850; cream net gown, valued at $400; one broadtail skirt, valued at $1200; one pink silk cushion for lounge, valued at $100; one white satin jewel box, valued at $45; nineteen hats average price $28.65.

It is not often a woman in Mrs. Cary's position is sued by her dressmaker, but yesterday judgment for $5568.48 was entered against the handsomely dressed "Ham" Cary and in favor of a Fifth avenue millinery firm.

Cary said the bill would be paid Monday. He also said he knew nothing about the suit until judgment had been taken, and that Mrs. Cary was so happy-go-lucky in money affairs that she was constantly finding herself in complications of this sort.

Mrs. Cary was the fascinating Miss Nellie Bostwick of Westchester and New York fifteen years ago. Her brother is Albert C. Bostwick and her sister Mrs. Albert C. Bostwick. Mrs. Cary's first husband was Francis Lee Morell. A few years after his death she became Mrs. Cary. Cary is one of the best known clubwomen in New York. The Carys live in Westbury, L. I., and Mrs. Cary's closest friends are Mrs. Clarence H. Mackay, Mrs. Thomas Hastings and Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney.

Bill for Three Months.

The millinery bill includes gowns and furs bought between September 21 and December 17, 1903, and the items represent only a small part of Mrs. Cary's winter supply. Only one gown was bought from the millinery. Mrs. Cary obtained credit merely by mentioning her name. Her town house, in No. 501 Fifth avenue, is surrounded by those of the Elbridge T. Gerry, Mrs. James F. Kernochan and other millionaires, and this was another reason why even the haughty saleswoman tried to please her. It is said she would have bought through the shop until a fur coat, a hat or a gown caught her eye, when she would enter it without stopping to ask the price. The milliners said they sent her several bills, and then, weary of her apparent indifference, brought suit through the courts. The bill for the last night Cary laughed uproariously when he heard about the judgment. He looked upon it as a good joke, and said:

"Upon my honor, I knew nothing about the suit until this judgment was awarded. My wife has the slightest idea of business, and she was anything she pleased without considering the price. Of course, her credit should be good as Government bonds, but she is rather forgetful when the bills come around. I might have known that sooner or later she would find herself in a predicament of this sort."

Will Settle It Today.

"You may say for me this judgment will be satisfied as soon as I can get to town in the morning. Of course, we shan't question it, and I am sure everything I might have known that sooner or later she would find herself in a predicament of this sort."

Process Servers Received.

After the milliners had brought suit against Mrs. Cary they had no difficulty serving her with a summons. Although she had ignored their "account rendered" and "please send a check" communications, the process servers were resolved courteously in the Fifth avenue home of Mrs. Cary. A woman in a plush coat took the little old man into the pink and gold drawing-room and Mrs. Cary received him with charming politeness.

"Here are some papers for you," said the server, trembling at the luxury surrounding him, and fearing Mrs. Cary would be enraged.

Mrs. Cary smiled, took the legal documents, with their ominous seals, and said:

"Thank you very much. But what am I to do with them?"

"Read them," he replied.

"Here, Francis," said Mrs. Cary to the butler, "take these to my room. I shall look at them some day."

Mrs. Cary smiled her farewell and the process server ambled out. She did not appear in court and the judgment was taken by default.

OGDEN

TRIBUNE BRANCH OFFICE,
1446 Washington Ave., Telephone 111

OGDEN RESIDENCE DESTROYED BY FIRE

Special to The Tribune.

OGDEN, June 12.—The fire department was called this afternoon to the residence of O. E. Olson, 21 Twenty-sixth. Through a disarrangement of the alarm system the department made a run to box 32 at the freight office and before they returned to Jefferson and Twenty-sixth streets the fire was well under way. The house is almost a total loss, a valuable piano being among the articles. Loss $2000.

Frank Devoto of this city received tidings of the death of his nephew, Weir D. Coffman, who died at Omaha yesterday.

Mrs. Joseph Flygare of this city will leave tomorrow for a visit with friends and relatives at Preston, Ida.

Sheriff James of Utah county was in the city today.

In behalf of the relatives of the late Clarence J. Stone, I desire to extend our thanks to the Woodmen of the World for their prompt payment of the insurance policy for $2000 which Mr. Stone carried in that company.

A. J. STONE.

Albert Doney, son of Thomas Doney, was fatally shot near Willard, Box Elder county, some time this evening.

Late tonight a telephone message from Willard states that it is a case of attempted suicide. The message about the effect that Doney made the remark some hours before that he intended to kill himself. As he was but 19 years of age, and there being no apparent reason why he should do so, no attention was paid to the threat. It is said, however, that he appeared very despondent during the day. Dr. Rich has gone from Ogden to attend him. He was alive at midnight, but very low.

The boy is shot in the temple and cannot live. He is a nephew of Samuel Doney, teacher of manual training in the Salt Lake schools.

One of the most daring robberies that ever occurred in Ogden was committed this evening on lower Twenty-fifth street. While the streets were crowded with people a man stepped into the entrance of Stein's pawnshop and, with a rock wrapped in a cloth, smashed one of the side windows and, extracting eight watches, valued at about $200, successfully made his escape.

While intoxicated tonight, Lee Faulkner fell into a pile of broken bottles and received several bad scratches about the head. He was carried into Knott's drug store, where his wounds were dressed by Dr. Dixon.

Nothing new developed in the Moss case today. Moss is still at the county jail and will probably be arraigned tomorrow afternoon, when he will attempt to secure bail.

PROVO WANTS PUBLIC FREE LIBRARY

Special to The Tribune.

PROVO, Utah, June 12.—Dr. F. W. Taylor and a few other leading citizens are obtaining signatures to a petition in favor of erecting a public free library for the city. About 500 have already responded. The tax estimate for doing the necessary work for the library is $31.2 cents per $1000 in property valuation.

The remains of James T. Oakley, who was found dead in his bed at Thompson's Springs Wednesday, were shipped to Nephi for burial.

Considerable political gossip has been going on among the Utah politicians during the past week. The leaders have been brought together from all parts of the county by the board of equalization. Provo is beginning to line up for the job, and will ask the county for one representative, one commissioner, county recorder and county clerk. C. A. Glazier and H. S. Pyne are being talked of for State Treasurer.

According to "Political Pointers" in yesterday's Enquirer, one is made to believe that Pyne has entirely withdrawn from the race. The statement was issued without announcement. Mr. Pyne has made no announcement to that effect.

Born, to the wife of Conductor W. B. Farr, a twelve-pound son.

Outlook Good at Parowan.

PAROWAN, June 12.—Prospects look a little brighter for the north end of iron county than for some time. The Colorado Fuel and Iron company now has twelve men working on its iron claims on Little Creek canyon and expects to put more on in a short time. The claims look very favorable and the managers are well satisfied. The iron is of a very good Bessemer quality.

Everything looks good in the farming district.

The County Clerk issued a marriage license to William S. Benson and Fannie Smith, both of Parowan. The wedding took place at the home of the groom's parents. Mr. Benson is about 22 and the bride is 17. The bride's mother died some years ago and the father is away, but he sent his consent.

Smallpox Is Disappearing.

Special to The Tribune.

MT. PLEASANT, Utah, June 12.—No late cases of smallpox having developed, and all the former cases being about well, the Board of Health has decided to raise the quarantine tomorrow. In all the cases the disease has been in a very light form.

The City Council met last night and decided to have a celebration here July 4. The following committees were appointed: Program, Web Green; A. Aldrich; F. C. Jensen; Soren Nelson; Mary Christensen; decoration, Joe W. A. J. Peterson; N. Gunderson; O. E. McGeehan; Eloise Anderson; Hilda McGeehan; Zella Seely; amusement, S. D. Longdorf; William Hansen; V. N. Peterson; Thomas Braby and A. H. Maiben.

UTAH POSTMASTERS TO HAVE STATE MEET

Special to The Tribune.

LEHI, Utah, June 12.—Postmaster Ross, secretary of the Utah State Postmasters' association, was in Provo Saturday in consultation with Postmaster Cloye, president of the association.

The executive committee was sent notices calling it together at Provo next Wednesday, when a programme will be outlined for the big gathering of the postmasters from all over the State which will be held in Provo on July 20.

Senators Kearns and Smoot and Congressman Howell have been invited and will probably be in attendance. Communications from the president and the secretary of the National Association of Second and Third-Class Postmasters express the willingness of these eminent postmasters to attend, and it is probable that some of the officials from Washington also will come.

President Cloye and Secretary Ross are making personal efforts to get every postmaster in the State in as small as a member of the association, and anticipate the coming meet to be a great success.

The Lehi Silver band is being reorganized under the leadership of Prof. J. Fieldsted of the Brigham Young university of Provo. Mr. Fieldsted is a member of Prof. Miller's famous orchestra, which will give the ball at the City pavilion each week during the summer season.

The Lehi Public School Alumni association will hold its reunion this year on June 20, at the forks of the American Fork canyon. The ladies will prepare luncheon and the gentlemen will furnish the conveyances.

The excursionists who yesterday went to Idaho Falls and Sugar City were: Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Cudler, Jr., M. W. Ingalls, Williams E. Rucker, Mrs. S. J. Walker, Mrs. Lottie Gudmundsen and Mrs. Kate Kirkham.

Rev. George I. Adams of Westboro, Mass., who has conducted the Congregational church and school in Lehi for the past year, has gone to his old home for vacation. He is expected to be able that Mr. Adams will conduct the school the coming year.

An exciting runaway made things lively on Main street this morning. The horse and buggy belonged to G. H. Smith, Jr., and the buggy was smashed.

Some miscreant took the City Marshal's bike out of the city hall a few days ago and has forgotten to return it.

Miss Birdie Stoddard, the local "hello" manager, is taking a vacation at Garland.

Miss Leah Bush, who has been in Grantsville for three months, has returned home.

Fred Harwood, who for the past four years has been pursuing a musical course in the East, graduating at the Broad Street conservatory of Philadelphia, has returned home.

NEW SUPERINTENDENT FOR LOGAN SCHOOLS

Special to The Tribune.

LOGAN, June 12.—Prof. Daniel C. Jensen was elected Superintendent of the Logan City schools last night by the Board of Education, the vote being 3 to 2. By the same vote the salary was placed at $1500 per annum. Prof. Moseiah Hall of the Brigham Young college and Prof. William S. Langston of the Agricultural college were elected associate members of the board of education. The usual list of claims was allowed and some needed improvements for next year were ordered.

Prof. Jensen, the new Superintendent, is a Utah product, and was born at Ephraim, June 16, 1863, and received his education in the public schools of his native town, the Snow academy, the University of Utah, where he graduated from the normal course in 1886, and the Brigham Young college, where the degree of bachelor of arts was conferred in 1892.

He began work in the chosen profession in Mt. Pleasant, where for six years he was supervisor of the Mt. Pleasant school district, and then came to Logan, where he was elected superintendent of the public schools. His work attracted the attention of the University of Utah, and he was named, and accepted a position in the training school of that institution. One year later he was secured by the Brigham Young college as principal of the training school in that institution, which position he held for three years, when he was placed at the head of the department of geology and mineralogy in the college proper, which position he held at the time of his election to the Superintendent of the Logan City schools.

Mr. Jensen has been very successful throughout his educational career and enters upon his new duties under favorable circumstances. His policy will be one of progression and advancement, endeavoring to maintain the present high standard of our public schools. He will qualify without delay.

The County Commissioners were sitting as a board of equalization yesterday. Some minor matters were adjusted, but the preliminary work has been so well done that matters were practically equalized without action of the Commissioners.

Congressman Joseph Howell and National Delegate H. Bullen, Jr., will leave for Chicago next week to be present at the National convention.

The delegation to the State Democratic convention has returned, much elated over the selection of Hon. Joseph Monson as a National delegate. It is significant to note that both delegates, Mr. Monson and Mr. Bullen, are from the same town, the little city of Richmond.

PARK CITY

TRIBUNE BUREAU,
424 N. Main Street, Telephone 73

Elks to Go to Provo.

Special to The Tribune.

PARK CITY, Utah, June 12.—The Elks will hold a special meeting in their lodge room this evening at 6:30 o'clock, to make final arrangements for their trip to Provo next week. After the business of the meeting is finished the members will attend services at the Methodist church in a body.

This afternoon Park lodge No. 4, K. of P., observed the memorial day of the order. The Knights met in their castle hall at 4 o'clock and marched to Glenwood cemetery, where about twelve of their brethren lie buried in the plot belonging to the lodge. Short memorial services were held here and the graves of the deceased members were strewn with roses and carnations.

John Shields has purchased the confectionery stand of Mrs. Vigor on Park avenue and Eighth street and will take possession tomorrow.

Cashier W. W. Armstrong of the First National bank is in camp for a few days on business. His son, Sherman, accompanies him.

GREAT CROWD FROM EUREKA IS COMING

Special to The Tribune.

EUREKA, June 12.—The ball game between the Battery boys from Fort Douglas and the Eureka team, scheduled for today at the local ball park, was called off on account of the soldiers being unable for some unknown reason to make the trip. The next game that the Eureka team will participate in will be at the Lagoon tomorrow afternoon and their opponents will be the Park City nine. The Eureka team will line up as follows: J. Heuser, catcher; Jensen, pitcher; King, first base; Douglas, second base; Beck, third base; Taylor, shortstop; McFarland, left field; Hahn, center field; McKean, right field; Jensen, the new star artist, arrived from Salt Lake last night and will hereafter wear a Eureka uniform.

It is estimated that fully 500 people will go to Salt Lake tomorrow on the excursion to be run over the San Pedro line. Nearly all the business houses and a great many of the homes will close in order that employees may have an opportunity of visiting the capital.

The Eureka Union band, twenty pieces, will go along to furnish music for the occasion.

The following general committee has been appointed to arrange for a celebration on Independence day: James Stack, chairman; Hugh Heffernan, Gus J. Hendrick, Henry Matsch, Herbert Hopes, F. J. Bennett.

A fine programme of sports, including horse races, a ball game and drilling contests, will be arranged for the occasion.

Nick Comes has returned from Denver, Colo., where he went as a delegate from the Eureka Miners' union to the annual convention of the Western Federation of Miners.

Dick Richards came out from Salt Lake today. He will probably remain here for the summer and act as official umpire for the Eureka Athletic association.

Mrs. Walter Thompson entertained yesterday afternoon in honor of Miss Catherine Brown, who leaves tomorrow for her home at Northfield, Minn., where she will be married to a prominent business man on the 26th inst.

Attorney N. A. Robertson will go to Nephi tomorrow to be present at the opening of the June term of court.

R. S. Robertson, the North Tintic mining man, will go to Salt Lake next Tuesday to attend the wedding of his daughter, which takes place on the 16th.

The local lodge of Elks will go to Provo in a body Wednesday morning to attend the annual convention of that order. The local football team will play the Provo team on the 17th and on the following day several well known Tintic miners will compete for the prize offered in the drilling contest.

The Cosgrove orchestra appeared here last night under the auspices of the local lodge of Elks.

WHAT'S MATTER WITH GROVER?

Old-Time Campaign Cry
Is Renewed.

"Stuffed Prophet" May Again
Become the Democratic Moses.

Hearst Says He Is in Race to Remain
—Great Principles Underlie His Candidacy.

Special to The Tribune.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—"What is the matter with Grover?" That is a question thousands are almost certain to ask at St. Louis in three weeks, as they are now asking at their homes in almost every State in the Union.

Cleveland's figure will not dawn. It has grown since his first declaration for Judge Parker, and the magic of his name is a thing the people delight to conjure with. "Cleveland luck," "Cleveland firmness," "Cleveland honesty," and other such expressions are rolled under the tongue and used for texts in the newspapers until the average Democrat finds it possible to speak the former President's name with more ease and to find in it more satisfaction than any other name that has been urged this year.

"After all," remarked a leader, "the Democracy could do no better than to nominate and re-elect Grover Cleveland. His name would bring together tens of thousands of men who have had nothing to do with the Democracy since it ran wild after the visionaries of the ninety-six campaign. It would also bring back to the Democratic standard many thousands more who have been affiliating with the Republicans. It would alienate many. It is true, but Roosevelt's nomination would alienate an equal number with the chances in favor of the Democracy."

Another Democratic leader believes Parker is merely an advance light for the coming of Cleveland. He says there is so much to suggest this that any student of events must recognize the logic of the statement.

Cockran May Spring Sensation.

The story is going the rounds that the Conservative Democrats may be the ones to spring a sensation upon the Democratic convention this year, as Bryan did in 1896. Bourke Cockran, it is said, is to be offered as the piece de resistance. If the situation warrants an effort for Cleveland's nomination, recognized by all elements of his party as one of the best, if not the most dramatic orator of the Democracy, Mr. Cockran will be prepared to mount the rostrum at a minute's notice and touch off the spark for Cleveland's nomination. His effort in that role, it is pointed out, might be all the more effective because he was the man who held the Democratic convention in 1892, and was bound, while he made his famous speech declaring that Cleveland was a popular man on every day of the year except on election day. Cockran, as all know who have studied his political career, must have been at all times an expositor of this year the candidate whom on that occasion he denounced as unable to carry New York or the nation. It is said on the highest authority that despite what Senator McCarver or any other Parker booster in New York may say, Senator Gorman is not affiliated with the Parker movement, but in fact is slyly antagonistic to it.

Hearst Will Stick.

Hearst is in the race to stay. He has not recently declared: "I have no intention of withdrawing, nor has any change been made in any of my plans." The newspapers make frequent changes in these plans, but I have made none, and my name will be presented to the St. Louis convention and voted for.

"The question of my nomination for the Presidential office by the St. Louis convention is, to me as well as to the party, one of minor importance when compared with the real problems that the convention must determine."

"My own candidacy is of no moment except as it bears on the greater question of whether the Democratic party shall be dominated by that element which does not look beyond the offices, or whether what I have been pleased to term the 'Progressive Democracy' shall prevail."

"I do not regard the Presidency as an end, but as an opportunity. I would not deem it worth while merely to be pointed out as the man who is President, but I would give all I possess to be pointed out as the man who, when President, stopped the trusts from robbing the people."

It is clear from the two statements that the New York Congressman and newspaperman is not weakening because of the fierce fire that has been made on him. He has the second largest vote pledged to a candidate, Parker barely leading. He is already being treated with by the anti-Parker men, and will be a factor at St. Louis, though in no wise longer a formidable candidate for President.

No man is nearer the goal, the politicians argue, than he was months ago, but Cleveland's peculiar station promises much in certain contingencies.

Burning Cigars Confuse Firemen

Fumes From Tobacco Make Fire Fighting a Very Serious Matter at New York.

NEW YORK, June 12.—Thirty firemen were temporarily overcome by tobacco smoke and fumes from a fire in Foltz cafe, on Broadway. The fire was confined to the sub-edlar in which liquors and cigars were stored, and the fumes and the dense smoke from the burning cigars hindered the firemen to such an extent that they were compelled to work in two-minute relays. During the fire an ambulance surgeon was stationed nearby to care for the firemen, whose eyes caused them intense pain after each rush into the smoke. The damage to the restaurant was $100,000. The upper floors of the building were occupied by wholesale milliners, and the loss on their stock, which was practically ruined by the smoke, is also placed at $100,000.

Another early morning fire in the Washington and storage houses of the Jacob Hoffman Brewing company, in East Fifty-fifth street, caused a loss estimated at $25,000
